Description of units

The fund is constituted as an open-end mutual fund. There is no limit to the number of units which may be issued. An investor will have an interest in an undivided proportion of the assets of the fund through the medium of units of participation. Each unit secures an equal share in the distribution of net income and net capital gains and participates equally in all other respects.

Units must be paid for in full in cash or by certified cheque. Units may be issued as fractions. Each unit entitles a unitholder to one vote at any meeting of unitholders.

Price of units

The price or “net asset value” of a unit is calculated at the close of business of each valuation day by dividing the value of the net assets of the fund (i.e. the value of the fund’s assets less its liabilities) by the total outstanding number of units. A valuation day is any day on which the bank is open for business.

Investors can access the net asset value per unit daily on the RBC Financial (Caribbean) website (www.rbc.com/caribbean).

Valuation of the fund

Equities, bonds, and other debt obligations will be valued based on prices provided by an accepted pricing service to reflect fair market value. Assets not priced in this way may be valued at cost. Instruments with maturities of less than 90 days may be valued at cost plus or minus any discounts or premiums. All other assets which have no quoted market price will be valued at fair market value by the investment manager.

Purchase of units

The purchase price for a unit is equal to the net asset value, which is calculated at the close of business on the day prior to which the fund receives your order. Your investment is made in US dollars and converted to units at the prevailing purchase price. There is no charge for purchasing units of the fund, the minimum initial investment and minimum holding is USD100. The minimum for additional investment is USD25. These minimums apply to the Standard and Periodic Investment Plans and $50,000 for the Systematic Withdrawal Plan. More details of the plans are shown in the section entitled “Plans Available to the Investor”

Investors may purchase units of the fund from the following on application forms approved by the fund.

- a. All branches of RBC Royal Bank (Trinidad & Tobago) Limited
- b. RBC Trust (Trinidad & Tobago) Limited
- c. RBC Royal Bank (Trinidad & Tobago) Limited may also arrange for registered brokers to act as agents in the sale of units.

The trustee may accept or reject any application to purchase units, such decision to be made within three (3) days after receipt of the application. If an application is rejected, all monies received with the application will be returned without interest within four (4) business days of receipt of the application.

If an application is received and approved then the purchase order will be processed and confirmation of purchase will be sent to the investor within a maximum of three (3) clear business days. An application which is received after 3:00 pm will be processed on the next business day.

An investor who has satisfied the minimum investment requirement of USD100 may continue to invest through a Periodic Investment Plan. This plan allows for deductions of a specific amount from the investor's bank account on a monthly, quarterly or semi-annual basis and for investments in the fund to be made until a pre-determined objective is attained or until further notice. The minimum investment is USD25.

How to redeem units

A unitholder may redeem any or all of the units of the fund owned by such unitholder in accordance with the trust deed at any time by delivering a written request for redemption on the approved form to the trustee or to any branch of RBTT Bank. There is no charge to redeem units of the fund. Units will be redeemed at their net asset value determined at the close of day on which the fund receives the redemption order. If a redemption request is received before 1:00 p.m. on a valuation day, the redemption will be processed using the net asset value relevant for that valuation day. Redemption requests received after 1:00 p.m. or on a day which is not a valuation day will be processed using the net asset value for the next valuation day.

Provided the investor has delivered the documentation required, payment will be made to such investor within three (3) business days of the redemption request. The investor will be asked to bring certain documentation in order to complete the redemption request which must be signed by the investor. The signature must be verified.

A redemption request made in respect of units held jointly must be signed by all the parties to the account, except when all parties have signed a mandate which permits only one of the joint holders to sign the redemption request.

Any one investor may redeem units in cash up to a limit USD50,000 or one percent, whichever ever is lower, of the net value of the fund during any ninety-day period. Should a redemption request by an investor exceed this limit, units in excess of the limit may, at the discretion of the trustee, be redeemed in specie in proportion to the underlying assets. Where units are redeemed in specie, any costs incurred in transferring assets in specie will be for the investor's account.

Distribution of income

The net income received by the fund is calculated and accrued to the investor daily and is distributed quarterly supported by a statement of account. All distributions will, in the absence of instructions from the investor to the contrary, be reinvested in additional units of the fund at the price which is determined based on the net asset value per unit.

Security for loans

Units held in the fund can be used as security for loans.

Plan types available to the investor

There are three (3) types of plans:

a) Standard Plan

The investor invests at any time he can afford and has the option of reinvesting distributions in units or taking cash.

b) Periodic Investment Plan

This plan allows for deduction of a specific amount from the investor's bank account on a monthly, quarterly, semi-annual or annual basis as desired, for investments in the fund to be made until a pre-determined objective is attained. All income is automatically reinvested in units.

c) Systematic Withdrawal Plan

The investor may participate in a Systematic Withdrawal Plan by making a minimum contribution of $50,000 to the fund.

An investor directs the Trustee to surrender for cancellation monthly, quarterly or half-yearly, such number of units as is necessary to provide for payments to the investor of a specific sum which shall not be less than $500 per withdrawal.

An investor who elects to invest under this Systematic Withdrawal Plan should recognize that to the extent that redemptions are in excess of distributions of income from units, they will result in an encroachment on and eventual exhaustion of the investor's original capital.

Joint investors

Where units are jointly held, they are subject to the rules of joint tenancy. If either party to the account dies, his or her share automatically passes to the surviving party.

Taxation considerations

a) Resident individual unitholders

Distributions of the fund are not taxable and will not have to be included in the investor's annual income tax return.

b) Resident corporate unit holders

Distribution will be paid without any deduction of tax.

c) Non-resident unit holders

Distributions will be subject to withholding tax (to be deducted prior to distribution) at the rate applicable to the country in which they reside.

Managers of pension plans, credit unions and long-term assurance companies should seek specific advice on their circumstances.

Reporting requirements

The fund will supply each unitholder with quarterly statements. These reports detail all account activity during the period and show the amount of income paid to the investor or reinvested in the fund.

Calculation of performance data

The fund's return shall be calculated as the weighted average yield to maturity of the fund's assets. It shall be available on the website of RBC Royal Bank (Trinidad & Tobago) Limited (www.rbc.com/caribbean).

Amendments to the trust deed

The bank may amend or vary the provisions of the trust deed by giving no less than sixty (60) days prior written notice to investors, of the text of the proposed amendment and the rationale. However, this right will not be exercised so as to give the bank and/or the trustee any right to any assets of the trust already in the hands of the trustee at the time of its exercise or to permit the assets of the trust to be used for or diverted to purposes other than for the benefit of investors.

The following fundamental changes will require a resolution passed by at least a majority of the votes cast, in person or by proxy at a meeting of unitholders held in accordance with the trust deed;

- A change to the fundamental objectives of the fund
- A change in the auditor of the fund
- A change in the manager, unless the successor manager is an affiliate of the existing manager
- A change in the methodology used to calculate the net asset value per security of the fund
- An increase in fees or expenses charged to the fund including, but not limited to an increase in management fees

Termination of the fund

From the date of termination fixed by the bank, the right of investors with respect to redemption shall cease. The trustee shall sell all remaining assets in its possession and such sale shall be carried out and completed in a manner and within a period as determined by the investment advisor. The trustee shall be entitled to retain out of any monies in its hands payments for all debts, liabilities, fees or commissions outstanding. The trustee will then distribute to Investors pro rata to the number of units held by them respectively all net assets of the fund available.

Section 69 of the Securities Industry Act

This prospectus has been filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC), and a receipt has been issued by the Commission.

Conflicts of interest

The investment advisor, its holding company, holding company's shareholders, any subsidiaries of its holding company and any of their directors, officers, employees, agents and affiliates ("Interested Parties" and each, an "Interested Party") may be involved in other financial, investment or other professional activities which may, on occasion, cause conflicts of interest with the fund. These include management of other funds, purchases and sales of securities, investment and management advisory services, brokerage services, and, serving as directors, officers, advisers, or agents of other funds or other companies. In particular, it is envisaged that the investment advisor may be involved in advising other investment funds which may have similar or overlapping investment objectives to or with the fund. The investment advisor may provide services to third parties similar to those provided to the fund and shall not be liable to account for any profit earned from any such services. Where a conflict arises, the Investment Advisor will endeavor to ensure that it is resolved fairly. In relation to the allocation of investment opportunities to different clients, including the fund, the investment advisor may be faced with conflicts of interest with regard to such duties, but will ensure that investment opportunities in those circumstances will be allocated fairly.

The investment advisor, and/or any company associated with it, may enter into portfolio transactions for or with the company either as agent, in which case they may receive and retain customary brokerage commissions and/or cash commission rebates, or with the approval of the trustee, deal as a principal with the company in accordance with normal market practice subject to such commissions being charged at rates which do not exceed customary full service brokerage rates.
